

Alternative Dispute Resolution Procedures

On a party's motion, or on the Court's own initiative after reviewing the docketing statement, the Court may refer a civil case to alternative dispute resolution. See TEX.CIV.PRAC. & REM.CODE ANN. §154.021. Any party may file a written objection to the ADR order within 10 days of the date of the order. The Court will review the objection and make a timely ruling after its receipt. If the Court finds a reasonable basis for the objection, it will sustain the objection and withdraw the mediation order.
